- information about your contact with us such as meetings, emails, letters and phone calls;
- information about your employment, company benefits, your sources of income and your liabilities;
- information you may provide us about other people, such as your spouse and dependants. You must obtain consent from the individual(s) concerned to provide information;
- limited information on children for setting up a policy on their behalf; and
- other information that is necessary to allow us to provide you our firm's services in accordance with your expectations.

How is your personal data used?

We will only process your personal data where there are lawful grounds for doing so;

- when it is necessary to perform the contract existing between us. This contract is represented by the Client Agreement which sets out the services we will provide you;
- to meet our legal and regulatory obligations;
- to provide the product and/or service your employer has requested;
- to meet our responsibilities in the event of a complaint; and
- to verify your identity.

Please note that if you do not wish us to collect and use your personal information in these ways, we will be unable to provide you with our products and services.

Disclosure of your information

We may disclose your information to:

- providers of investments, pensions and Insurance, mortgage and other lenders of credit, investment platforms, Trusts and Discretionary Fund Managers;
- third parties contracted by us to assist us with the advice and services we provide to you and meet our legal and regulatory obligations;

How long your personal data will be kept

There are minimum retention periods, during which we have a legal obligation to retain your records. However, we reserve the right to retain data for longer where we believe it is in our legitimate interests to do so.

You have the right to request deletion of your personal data. We will comply with this request, subject to the restrictions of our regulatory obligations and legitimate interests as noted above.

Transfer of your information out of the EEA

The personal data of those who complete our electronic mortgage factfind is stored outside of the European Economic Area (EEA), in the United States (US). The reason for this is that we feel the company in question (Cognito Forms) offer the most attractive proposition and will provide the greatest benefit to our clients. Proper due diligence on them has been carried out and we are satisfied that they have taken all reasonable steps to protect your personal data.

You will be asked to give your Explicit Consent before completing the factfind separately. You will not be able to complete the form if you do not give your consent. If you do not wish to complete an electronic factfind please ask your adviser for a paper-based version.

Your rights

You have legal rights under data protection regulation in relation to your personal data. These are set out under the below headings:

- To access personal data
- To correct / erase personal data
- To restrict how we use personal data
- To object to how we use personal data (where legitimate interests are cited as lawful grounds for processing data)
- To ask us to transfer personal data to another organisation
- To object to automated decisions where this occurs
- To understand how we protect information transferred outside Europe
- To find out more about how we use personal data

We will not ask for a fee, unless we think your request is unfounded, repetitive or excessive. Where a fee is necessary, we will inform you before proceeding with your request.

We aim to respond to all valid requests within one month. It may however take us longer if the request is particularly complicated or you have made several requests. We will always let you know if we think a response will take longer than one month.

We may not always be able to fully address your request, for example if it would impact the duty of confidentiality we owe to others, or if we are otherwise legally entitled to deal with the request in a different way.

Keeping your personal data secure

We have appropriate security measures in place to prevent personal data from being accidentally lost, used or accessed in an unauthorised way. We limit access to your personal data to those who have a genuine business need to know it. Those processing your information will do so only in an authorised manner and are subject to a duty of confidentiality.

We also have procedures in place to deal with any suspected data security breach. We will notify you and any applicable regulator of a suspected data security breach where we are legally required to do so.
